Explanations:

:// means repeat

G/em means you can play eather G or em. Try them both. It makes the athmosphere of the whole song different.

(C) means possible to play this chord, but dont need to.

KAPO feel free to use the Kapo on all the Songs if they are to low (or to high) for you. Singing in your comfort zone can make singing so much more fullfilling.

Sanskrit Mantras

Short explanation Hinduism

3 main Aspects of the divine father/of the divine mother

- Bramah/Sarasvati
 - Creator, Creativity, Art, Realization, Intuition
- Vishnu/Lakshmi
 - Protector of the Creation Giving, Peace, Beauty, Abundance
- Shiva/Parvati
 - Destroyer, Let go, Transformation

Deities in Vishnu Energy:

Krishna

- 8. Avatar of Vishnu
- is the all pervasive Love
- devine Joy
- his flute is the symbole of the human heart whitch gets alive through divine Prana (breath)
- pictured with blue skin, his flute, a peacock fether and sometimes as cowherd boy

Radha

- Krishnas eternal concord
- symbolizes devine love, romance, unconditional devotion, aesthetics

Govinda/Gopala

- two names of Krishna
- Protor of the cows
- God as Cowherd boy→ we can dedicate our selfs to good. He will care for us
- they give joy to our senses and the land

Rama

- 7. Avatar of Vishnu
- stands for righteousness and fairness, dignity
- pictured with bow and arrow to protect the good

Sita

- incarnation of Lakshmi
- stands for courage, dedication and purity
- wife of Rama

Hanuman

- Ramas faithful follower
- He is as fast as the wind, has the strength to tear up mountains and clouds, is big as the mountains, has a voice like thunder and can fly
- symbolizes the mood of complete focused and humble dedication and devotion to go(o)d and through repeating his name
- pictured with a monkey body

Deities in Shiva Energy

Shiva

- is the destroyer and through this also the cause for the creation, because without destroying the old cycle there can't be a new creation

- helps to let go of illusions, of the ego, of attachments
- pictured with skin covered in ashes (stands for light and knowledge), 3 eyes, Snake around his neck, Ganga and half moon in the hair, trident and a drum

Parvati

- Mother of the univers
- Wive of Shiva and mother of Ganesha
- gives succes and prosperity
- Goddess of the Himalaja and of food

Kali

- wild form of Parvati
- stands for death, destruction and through this also for renewal
- destroys Illusions and ignorance
- pictured black, terrifying, dancing on shivas head

Durga/Devi/Shakti

- friendly form of Parvati
- gives material ritchness
- stands for power, renunciation and wisdom
- pictured with bright skin, 8 arms, riding on a tiger

Ganesha

- helps to overcome obstacles
- pulles the searcher out of his or her wordly problems and connects them with infine bliss
- destroys all wishes and bindings
- son of shiva and parvati
- pictured as an elephant often with a mouse (stands for egoism and wordly wishes) and sweets (stand for the reward of spiritual searching)

other Sanskrit words

Om or Aoum

- Om is the sound of the universe. When we chant it, we are symbolically and physically tuning in to that sound and recognizing our connection to everything within the universe.
- Impersonal manifestation of the devine

Namaha

- the word for salutation and praise

Shri

- word denoting the devine feminine, wealth and prosperity, primarily used as an honorific.
